

Giving something back...

As part of our on-going commitment of support - we donate £1 back for every policy sold to the charities who offer much needed help and advice.

We also offer competitive rates for those who simply wish to support the charities that we work with:

Our marketing costs are kept to a minimum so that we can help those who really need it. If you know of anyone experiencing difficulty or paying too much for their travel insurance – please help us spread the word and give them our details.

Likewise we are always open to working with other charities whose clients have similar problems.

*Where a party is travelling together it is advisable that everyone is insured under the same policy. If for whatever reason the 'affected' person needs to claim, then the rest of the group is also covered, if in doubt please speak to one of our consultants.

Why choose insurancewith?

Insurancewith is the brain child of an insurance broker who is herself a sufferer and survivor of breast cancer. It is this personal experience of both the distress and difficulty of trying to find reasonable travel cover (for a much needed break) that led to its creation.

insurancewith is different because we work hard with underwriters to properly explain the medical conditions in order to secure much better rates. Our realistic approach to our policy holder's illness means that we look at the actual risk - not the perceived risk.

We do not shy away from rare or complicated conditions - we don't think that anyone should be refused travel insurance or have to pay exorbitant premiums just because their condition is misunderstood.

Everyone deserves a break - especially when coping with illness - insurancewith aims to offer peace of mind, allowing you to relax and unwind in the knowledge that you are fully covered.

What's more our rates are such that the whole family can be insured* without paying too much.

We work with medical professionals and charities to really understand your condition, so that we can offer excellent cover, at highly competitive premiums.

Single Trip travel Insurance
